Brother Attorneys

Last evening the mortal remains of he late attorney, Thomas Lee, were consigned to the grave in the Catholic cemetery, followed to the last resting place by a long funeral cortege. The Catholic ceremonial funeral services were held at St Patrick's church, the auditorium being crowded Father McGuire officiated. Members of the Macon county bar attended in a body, as did also county and township officials.

THE MEMORIAL SPEECHES Owing to lack of time the Republican was anable last evening to publish the remarks of the attorneys at the meeting of the Macon county bar held yesterday

SENATOR JOHNS,
In moving the adoption of the memorial resolutions said that the Macon county bar bad been distinguished for its perfect frankness in presenting statements of deceased members. In his opin ion the memorial was a fair and just state ment of the qualities and abilities of Mr Lee In looking about the room the speaker saw but two brother attorneys, Mr Park and Mr Sterrett, who were members of the bar when Mr Lee be-came a member, at which time the dock-ets were heavy, the fighting was fierce, and personalities were indulged in to a large extent. The older members came up through difficulties that those who follow will not encounter. * * Mr. Lee was in the midst of the lights, and was Taken altogether he was a singularly successful criminal lawyer. He was also singularly successful with a jury. He singularly successful with a jury He had a subtle knowledge of hum in nature, which helped often to pull him out of close trials. It is right and proper on this occasion that he should be kindly spoken of, and notwithstanding past differences, the speaker did not believe that a single member of the bar carried in his

when he began the practice of law in De-eitur. From long personal acquaintance with Mr Lee, he never knew a young man who entered with such wonderful zeal in the practice of his profession. In master ing Chitty's pleading, he was i-markably clever He admired Mr. Lee especially because he clung closely to his profession from 1869 up to the Saturday night be-fore his death. In his lifetime, he emulated the example of the lawyers who have passed away, and he has placed has name high in merit and fame. He com-manded a very large Irish practice. Mr Sterrett's associations with Mr. Lee, sc-cially, had always been pleasant, and ne could heartily endorse the resolutions David Hutchison said it had been the custom to hear from those who had practiced longest at the bar, and consequently heretofore he had kept silent. It gave him pleasure to endorse the resolu tions, as they properly describe the each reer of Mr Lee so far as the barns concerned. He was an affectionate father and a good husband. He was not alone and a good husband He was not alone in his babits, whatever they might have been None of the kindred vices connected with the convival vices belonged to Mr. Lee He was always at home after 9 o'clock at night when not engaged in business. His family relations were of the happiest character. The speaker did not know Mr. Lee s superior in aggressiveness in the trial of a case, As Mr. Johns had said years ago, "Tom Lee fights his case from start to finish Lee fights his case from start to finish like a trip hammer,' and the speaker thought that statement was true And yet, aespite the exasperations and heat of a fight. Mr. Lee had no rancor in him. His feeling was wholly professional. The great monument to Mr. Lee was the confidence the hundreds of criminals whom he had faithfully defended reposed in him. In the trials he inspired them with hope and gave them strength Had Mr Lee possessed business ability equal with his legal attruments, he would have died rich instead of poor.

John A. Brown, who had known Mr. Lee for many years, made brief remarks "To succeed in literature it is better to have many more good enemies than good friends Good friends are like wemen who tire of their lovers, they forget rapidly, but good enemies are like for saken women, who pursue us even be-youd the grave" This sentiment, scrawled at random on a loose sheet of paper in an elegant, aristocratic hand, was not penned by a cymical Frenchman, trying to emulate La Rochefoucauld, but by a genial Galician, the author of a series of charming stories and novelettes, who, with the Russians Tolstor and Dostorevsky, has from his debut won for himself a European reputation—the clever and problic Sacher Masoch—London Cor. Quence, Can., Sept. 19 .- To-night large portion of Cape Diamond cliff be-low the citadel became detached and aliding down buried a number of houses ber of dead bodies have been taken from the debris. At the foot of the cliff is a narrow street which occupies part of the space between the cape and river. On he river side of this street were situated the houses which were crushed by the terrible avalanche of rock. In May, 1841, a similar land-slide oc-and killed thirty-two people. From present indications it is feared the lose of life by to-night's slide will be equaly as great. In 1852 another slide caused the death of several persons, about half a mile from the scene of the present disaster. The street is entirely filled with the wreckage, and a large force of men are at work clearing it away. Several fami-lies are known to have been entombed, curred which destroyed several buildings and it is feared that all are dead.

Late estimates place the number killed outright between twenty-five and thirty. About twenty-five persons have been removed from the debris, very badly inbired. Bome have broken arms and legs: chers are badly crushed and mutilated.
It is now estimated that at least fifty arsons are yet under the ruins. The fire brigade and police force are on the ground, rendering valuable assistance. All the injured were removed to the marine and fisheries departments, where medical men and clergymen looked after them. The debris covers the road in a solid mass for over six hundred feet in length, and from fifteen to twenty feet in height. It is impossible to say at present how many are dead and wounded, Every one is working heroically and un-der difficulties, as the night is intensely dark, and the electric lights were rendered useless by the land-slide. Socretary of the Interior II shows that during the year 179 901 documents were distributed. The library has been onlarged by the acquisition of 2,500 volumes and 10,000 pamphlets making the total number in the library 25,500 volumes and 90,000 pamphlets. The museum connected with the bureau includes 20,000 artisals. From an analysis of the statistics public schools for the decade 1876-77 to the growth of the system outstripped during that period the growth of popula-tion the excess of the increase of enrolment over the increase in population, six to fourteen years of age, being 16 per cent. This gain is attributed to the progress of the public schools in the two Southern sections and more especially in the South central division

ception to Mr Butterworth

Annual Report of the Commissioner of Education

WASHINGTON Sept. 17 -The annual re-says the report, "shows an excess over the increase of population probably never before paralleled in a country so long settled." Since 1876 77 the increase of enrollment in the public schools of the South has have sixturibee her cart. In South has been sixty-three per cert. In regard to the value of statistics enhibit-ing the condition of State school systems, ing the condition of State school systems, the rejort says their usefulness is greatly impaired by want of uniformity in the work of the different States. The sentiment in favor of free schools supported by public funds," says the Commissioner, is becoming each year more universally provalent. The public school systems of the Southern States have been undergoing an unprecedented. have been undergoing an unprecedented development under laws adapted in each case to local circumstances, and are now practically all established on a permapractically all established on a permanent basis. Colored children are apportioned an equal share of the school funds (except in the case of Delaware) and their schools are kept open as long and under as well pad teachers as those of under as well paid teathers as master, the white children. The funds for the support of these schools are furnished mainly by the white inhabitants, and after making hie allowance for all the sums that have been furnished for the education of the negroes through private sources of bonesolones and through taxes raised at our themselves it may be still sail that the children of those once held in solvitude in the South are leing educat 1 by the sons of their former master. '

The cuditions affecting public educa-ti um the South, the report says, makes it necessary to maintain two separate school systems. Their population is it necessary to maintain two separate school systems. Their population is made up of two distinct races and colors, in this section the statistics show that sixty four preent of the white population of school age are enrolled while but fifty-three per cont of the colored population of school age are enrolled. In the District of Color bia aloue does the colored enrollment as compared with the white population, exceed that of the white enrollment of school age. District of Colon bir alone does the colored enrollment as compared with the whitelpopulation, exceed that of the white enrollment of school age

A considerable portion of the report is devoted to elucatin in Alaski and the Commissioner recommends that all the schools now in apartian be brought more closely under Government control. Reclamation of Desert Lands
